Foreword

While roaming around Central's halls during the two-week Centralian campaign, various members of Ye Old Staff reported to The Powers That Be in the Centralian office that the student body was hurling disparaging remarks at THE MASTERPIECE, the 1943 Centralian . . .

Now, seriously, fellas, when you live with a book for a whole year—when you sweat blood for it, stay at school till 10 p. m., and even give up your lunch periods just to determine whether Jones, Mary's middle initial is "E" or "D"—then you come to love every one of those 104 pages as the hot dog loves its bun.

So naturally The Powers That Be were offended to hear that their brain-child was being attacked by vicious gossip, and we rushed to the front hall to ferret out the source of this blasphemy. And this is what we heard:

"Huh, where did they get this business about a 'Future' theme—whatta they think they are, fortune tellers?"

"I don't crave this Centralian deal at all. Maybe I'm just not sharp, but I don't get the drift."

Well, fellas, this nearly broke the hearts of The Powers That Be. Surely something was wrong if only the editors could understand the basis of the book. So here in the foreword (which we hope you'll read in five or six years) The Powers That Be take the opportunity of rectifying their mistake and interpreting the Centralian in terms of its "Future" theme.

On the opposite page you see the vague outlines of a nurse, a businessman, and a farmer, all of whom signify various positions Centralities may occupy in the future. On the three colored division pages are found drawings signifying objects of the future and the passing of time; the modernistic school building, the gavel, and the hour-glass with 1943 just squeezing through.

Then, on the subdivision pages you see sketches of a little old man who is reminiscing about his school days at Central in 1943.

That's all there is to it, fellas, no foolin'.

. . . Kinda vague, but the pitchers is purty!

Sincerely,

THE POWERS THAT BE.

Dear Jim:

Respecting and admiring a person is a pretty big order but you have filled the bill completely. I don't know when I have enjoyed knowing any one so completely. I hope that you never lack anything that is essential to a full and happy life.

Dedication

To all the graduating students who, through their work and study during the past four years, have gained the honor of forming for Central the class of '43; to the faculty, whose untiring and ceaseless teaching, counseling and patience have guided these students through their years at Central; to the underclassmen with their high charge of upholding the traditions and name of this school until that time comes when they, too, may write their names in the history of Central high school; to all the brave alumni who have given and are giving their lives in the present great conflict, in order to protect and preserve for us and our children these high ideals which they carried with them through their years here at Central; and to all past students who have taken the name of Central into all walks of life and all the corners of the world, we dedicate this, the Centralian for 1943 . . .

dearest Jim,

The time has at last rolled around when we must have to say goodbye to school and friends. But it is not the time of parting for us Jimmy because, as the best of friends must part we will always be friends in spirit if not in reality.

Your one of the finest fellows I know. Your personality is such that makes all respect & look up to you. We've had a lot of fun together doing so many things and these will always be pleasant and well remembered.

In your chosen success may you always be active and popular as you are this year. I know you will Jimmy because you have the stuff that makes such things.

Luck, success, happiness and all that goes with it may they come your way. College life is sure to be one of fun and continued social position.

As I told you before I needn't say goodbye but so-long until we meet again, which will be soons.

Lots of love,
Iona Lee

P. S. You and Thorn are really a good couple.

Our achievements are yet unborn, but the future spells success and good fortune for members of this class of '43. Who knows—the concoctions of youthful minds in Central's chemistry laboratory might well lead to substantial contributions to science through chemistry. The 'teen age mind laboring over projections of some simple mechanical object on the school drafting board may soon be designing those implements needed to make this a better world. The uncertain hands in home economics classes will be steadied when they build their future homes. The nimble fingers of the typing students may soon peck out international correspondence, while the bookworms who now frequent our library may, within the next few years, produce works to be read and reread by future Centralites.

We counted the Senior panels wrong, and the Faculty decided to omit the Senior ballot, so we had to write something, anything, to fill up this space. On this basis we hope you'll be lenient . . .

The Little Man has lots to remember about his senior year at Central. He'll never forget the fall of '42 and the spring of '43 when he spoke a slightly weird language, replete with "Did I ever like that!" and "Are you kiddin'?" and then later, "Naturally, he is jesting."

SENIOR OFFICERS

Professor Wilkesburger turned away from the iridium lighted plastic television set where he had been watching the Solar System Series baseball games to meet the horde of young people who were drifting down the sky-hatch on flying tubes. The electric eye had just marked the hour as 0915 (Lunar Time), and classes in the Central Superior Mental Discipline Institution were beginning. Professor Wilkesburger had long been a fixture in the imposing glass and chromium edifice, and his class in Pre-Solar history was popular with all the students.

"Hrumph!" he began. "Fellow seekers of the truth, today we are going to delve back into the history of our native terrain. We shall discover many interesting facts concerning recent excavations made in this vicinity. As far as we can tell, our own educational institution stands directly over an ancient structure of similar nature. Oddly enough, it was called Central High School, and a considerable number of anecdotes have been uncovered through archaic publications found in classrooms of that remote period. To clarify our study of these ancient people we shall follow a group of students through their entire secondary schooling and compare their lives with our own."

The professor paused, went to the transparent plastic wall and pointed to a low, flat building some distance to the east. "Over there, under our new Central Airdrome, stood another school building called Central Junior. We find that, even in that time, democratic principles were instilled in the students. Elections were held by each class, and in this particular group which we will study, the officers chosen were:

Pat Hughes—President
Claude Sherwin—Vice-President
Shirley Trump—Secretary
Bob Twin—Treasurer

"Many other activities occupied the time of these young people. Clubs known by the titles Hi-Y and Girl Reserves were an important part of their social life. Someone named Bob Twin led the boys' organization while Mary McGowan headed the girls."

The students began stirring in their latex-foam chairs, anxious to hear more of the interesting life of their predecessors.

"In 1940, these ancestors of ours left Central Junior and came to the building over which this one was built," continued Professor Wilkesburger. "Many new experiences awaited them in their new environment. The custom of these creatures was to present a talent show each fall which was called Variety Night. The class of our choice was well represented in this first endeavor of the school year. Bill Lawing, Steve Ward, and Mary McGowan all contributed to the general success of the production. In the meanwhile, lusty cheerleaders, Bill Lawing and Johnny Modlin, were encouraging the "Sophs" to cheer their classmates Steve Ward, Bill Jennings and Claude Sherwin on to new attainments in a strange and barbarous sport called Football. Next on the school calendar was a competitive game called

Zajic, Raymond

If he was a he, he wore corduroy zoot suits, Li'l Abner shoes and always—invariably—had a shaved head. If he, on the other hand, was a she, he (or she, we're kinda confused ourselves) had a baby cut or a long Veronica lob and smeared her lipstick because of the plastic tubes.

Every time he had a date, he begged on bended knees for the car, only to meet the fiendish grin of his father as an empty ration coupon book was waved before him. His favorite films were "Frankenstein Meets the Wolf Man" and "The Walking Dead," which he greeted with loud cries of "Zoot! Are you livin'?"

During the day, he spent his time hanging over the railings by the stairs or feverishly clutching a battered pineapple roll to his bosom when third lunch period came around. He guzzled innumerable "Pepsis" at the Friendly Store, scrawled his name on the scenery backstage, yelled, "Hey, Queenie!" when the assembly speaker appeared, and wrote "Had to see about Navy Air Corps" on his excuse each Friday.

Well, as our old pal, Harry Oldendick, would say, "Keep your mouth shut and your hair combed and you'll never get in trouble." . . . I guess . . .

On the Wall—Pat Grinnell, Dorothy Pemberton, Maxine Critz, Bill Haynie, Gene Furnish, Bob Jennings, Don Fitzhugh, Bill Sidebotham, Fred Prudden, and a couple of strays.

Class of 1944

The chimes rang, ushering in Professor Wilkesburger's next class. The professor groaned as he watched the boys and girls plod slowly into his room, carrying their plastic books and unbreakable glass pencils. This group, consisting of sophomores and juniors, undoubtedly was his most unintelligent and inactive class. So today he decided to give them a continuation of the study of the ancient document about Central High School. Only to this dull group a history of the underclassmen will be given.

It is no wonder, even to Professor Wilkesburger's stupid pupils, that the class of '44 was such a super group, because look at the perfect start they got as freshmen, with President, George Clark; Vice-President, Dorothy Dean; Secretary, Harriet Kellner; and Treasurer, Shirley Crain.

Upon entrance into senior high school, these wonderful sophomores of 1941-'42 were soon showing the seniors what was what. Bill Sidebotham displayed fine work on the gridiron, receiving a first team letter, and spurring him on from the bleachers were his sophomore classmates led by cheerleader Leland Johnson. The "sophs" were again outstanding in the Intersociety contest of 1942, when declaiming Evelyn Lewis, poetic Saranne MacCormack, and extemping Gail Smith, represented their respective literary societies. Meanwhile, Marvin Smart and Lester Levin gained recognition as members of the "YOUNG APRIL" cast.

Comes 1942-'43 and much in evidence again are the undaunted juniors. Bill Sidebotham, Al Wilcox, Bill Haynie and Fred Prudden, thrilled hundreds of football fans, with Bill Haynie and Bill Sidebotham making first team All-Star. Lester Levin, Beverly Sechrest, Gerry Beeler, Shirley Crain, Barbara Criger, Betty Klapis and Thelma Simmons, inspired audiences with their performances in the 1942 Variety Night production. On and on the juniors went, but like any large group, no matter how capable, leaders were needed. So a brief pause was taken along their path of achievement to elect President, Gerry Beeler, and Aides, Shirley Crain, Dale Eriksen and Bill Mead, to step forth with determination to lead their classmates toward bigger and better goals.

But while the class of '44 was doing such marvelous work and winning so many honors, behind them there came another great class in the making, the class of '45. In its freshman year this class was ably led by President, Bob Jennings; Vice-President, Nancy Galpin; Secretary, Jimmy Howard; and Treasurer, Winona Carpenter.

Its first year in Central Senior was marked with several praiseworthy accomplishments. Among these was the participation of Dick Finnell, Diane Leforgee, Ruth Jean Shafer, Helen Simmons and Dean Stringer, in the Variety Night of 1942. Also, Marjorie Street, Joyce Covey, Don Fitzhugh, Jimmy Howard, John Miller, Warren Jones and Jim Zerr, were chosen as representatives from their respective literary societies for the Intersociety contest of 1943.

Then, once again, the chimes rang, this time dismissing Professor Wilkesburger's class. However, they are no longer the disinterested, unenthusiastic group. They had been inspired by the histories of the classes of '44 and '45 and were determined to fashion themselves after those two invincible, super-super groups.

Dear Jim, Sad I've had a wonderful time working with you, in news, and trying "(and bidding) to beat you in history. You're a swell fellow to work with. I sure hope you go far, you should. To the most talented, wonderful, gentleman I've ever met. Loads of luck Dorothy Pemberton

Now how did Mr. Dubach say to do this?

FACULTY

All of you who receive this book are now facing conditions more serious than we hope you will ever have to face again. It would be very foolish for anyone to attempt to predict what the next year may bring forth for you. We trust, however, regardless of what you may be doing in the months and the years to come, that you have been so trained here that you can meet fairly and bravely whatever you encounter in life.

Some of you, especially seniors, will enter business life. Others will go into military service. Still others, we think, will be privileged to go on in school here or to college. Whatever your situation, as time goes on, we shall be more than glad to have you inform us whether what you have obtained here proves of real service to you. If it does not, tell us wherein you think we can prepare young people better for satisfactory living.

Personally, I trust you carry with you through life the principles of honesty, of fair dealing, and of civic righteousness. May we all hope for a speedy peace on the basis of justice, of equality of opportunity, and of freedom to live on friendly terms with all peoples everywhere on this globe.

We are living in a rapidly changing age. Old traditions and institutions are undergoing severe tests, and only the strong and worthwhile will survive. The whole outlook for youth has been changed. Some months ago, the sole aim of education was to prepare youth for business and professional life in a peaceful world. Now all this has changed, and for a brief time at least, the young men and women of this land must don the uniforms of our fighting forces and wage war relentlessly against a treacherous and ruthless foe.

In the days that are ahead of us we must keep our faith in democracy and its institutions. The tasks which lie ahead demand intensive study, hard thinking, broad vision, and leadership. If all of us have faith and work hard, we shall be victorious.

If there has been one organization at Central this year that has done the most towards furthering Central's war effort, it most assuredly has been the Student Council.

Under the leadership of Richard Sherman, first semester, and Charles Thierfelder, second semester, the Council served as the source for most of Central's war activities. The paper campaign, book campaign, War Stamp drives, scrap collections, and all the other vital war activities in which Central has taken an active part could not have been the success they were without the active support of the Student Council. Although it got off to a slow start, the Council began the organization of the Central Victory Corps.

All these war activities were undertaken in addition to its regular work of promoting school activities. The Student Council sponsored the Variety Night program, "We're on the Air," and the cabinet selected the cast, writers, and directors. The Council also was influential in breaking the sales record for Centralians with more than 100 per cent of the total school enrollment purchasing annuals.

This year Central received the added distinction of having its Student Council president, Richard Sherman, elected to the presidency of the All-City Student Council.

The other first term officers were: vice-president, Beverly Bundy; secretary, Barbara Hargis; sergeant-at-arms, Bob Criger; critic, Jim Benjamin. Other second term officers were: vice-president, Fred Stratemeier; secretary, Bill Jennings; sergeant-at-arms, John Middleton; critic, Bill Lawing.

Dear Jim -
Although I don't know you very well but all I can say is I think you are tops! You have everything anyone person could ever possess. Personality, intellect, leadership & everything else. [illegible] if you all go to Bucknell next year maybe I will then be better acquainted. I wish you lot of luck & success.
Sincerely
Jean Peters

Dear Jim,
I picked this page to write on because of a certa[illegible] movie actress I worship being in close proximity to me in the picture.
Well, I've followed your fame & fortune through Benton where [illegible] remember your short pants and b[illegible] knees (pardonnez-moi) Central Jr. and Sr.; and what a bri[illegible] [illegible] courage really has [illegible] bear. Let me tell you w[illegible] McGoon and I decid[illegible] about you a few months ago. We pronounced you the nicest, [illegible] gentlemanly, courteous, likable & [illegible] boy in the whole school. And you ar[illegible] It musta been yore up-bringin'. Give my regards to Cottingham and please accept my wishes for the continuance of your good luck throughout life (am I nuts or something? (don't answer that)
Love to you & J[illegible]
Marjorie Shry[illegible]

All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. The following pages show that the Centralite has many activities other than studies in which to participate. Anticipated events throughout the year are the mixers, where students jive to all the popular recordings. Sometimes they splurge and hire a band to furnish their music. It is during the crisp fall weather that our school patriotism swells to the fullest as our team clashes with its opponents for possession of the pigskin, cheered on by the rousing yells of the spectators and stirring marches of the band. The annual all-student Variety Nite is the occasion for gifted Centralites to exploit their various talents. Hollywood came to the Centralian when co-editors Mc-Ab talked with Miss Bette Davis for two hours and received her o. k. on the dummy for this 1943 Centralian . . .

Dear Jeni.

I don't know you very well but I certainly think a lot of you even if you are a Jefferson. You did a wonderful job on Olympic for this year's Inter Society. But I still can't make up my mind whether you were better than Betty Jo. Maybe it's because she's my sister. I know you'll succeed in anything you try. All the luck and happiness in the world.

Sincerely
Dorothy

We're on the Air!

"We're on the Air!" announced the unususal and entertaining Variety Nite presented the evenings of December 11 and 12.

Based on a comedian's radio show and the attempt to find a new singer to replace a retiring one, the theme of the show permitted the presentation of varied and talented acts, well supported by "The Demons of Swing."

For the second time, Variety Nite was under the sole direction of the student body, headed by the Student Council cabinet. Pulling an "Orson Welles," Bob Criger was director, script writer, and also had a prominent part in the show. Assisting in direction, writing, and choosing the talent were Dorothy Oelschlaeger, Bob Staley, Bunny Hargis, Doris Lichtor, Bonnie Lawrence, Chuck Thierfelder and Jim Benjamin, capably assisted by Miss Rebekah Leibengood and Miss Hazel Purnell of the faculty.

SPRING PLAY

Top Row—"Let's go in the next room and uh—talk things over."—John Middleton and Betty Weiser; "By Jove, I say this is ripping of you!"—Bettie Jo Horn and Bill Lawing; "Scotch and soda, what ho!"—David Miller, Leo Whinery and Harold Glazer; "Oh, Bobby darling, you're so-o-o-o witty!"—Doris Lichtor and Lester Levin.

Middle Row—"One can't overburden the weak-minded, can they, Mr. Tarver?"—Jerome Weinshank and Betty Zack; "Get married? Certainly not! I still have your older sister on my hands."—Joy Dart, Dudley Wren, Gene Loveland; "Bless my soul, Ida has fainted!"—Effie Jean Carter, Evelyn Lewis, Lona Lee Trautwein and Clark Guilliams.

Green Stockings

An English accent was the order of the day for the presentation April 16 and 17 of "Green Stockings," by A. E. W. Mason. A subtle English comedy with a "Cinderella" plot and a final original twist, "Green Stockings" was the first sophisticated play presented for Central audiences in years.

Central's own stage crew and Mr. Gus Peterson constructed the authentic English scenery, while transcribed music of English origin set the mood. The play was made colorful by the costuming of the cast, much of it being formal dress.

"Green Stockings" is the first production, proceeds of which are to begin a fund for the purchase of a new stage curtain to replace the present "beat up" one. The entire production was under the capable direction of Miss Virginia Robertson, ably assisted by other faculty members.

LUMINARY

If you've ever wandered past room 12 or the print shop late Thursday evening, you've no doubt heard the Luminary page editors raising their cracked voices in a mournful chorus of "Those Print Shop Blues" as they watch their dreams of a beautiful page go up in smoke (?).

However, everything usually turns out all right. Once in a while an important first page story is lost, or a galley of type "pied," but these minor incidents don't count.

So we take this opportunity to pay tribute to those long-suffering individuals who are known as the Luminary staff.

Central Blue Eagles Place Second in Interscholastic League

Thrilling Games Mark 1942 Grid Season

Strengthened by three returning lettermen this year, the Central Blue Eagles, lacking actual game experience, quickly formed a hard-hitting and fast-driving team which fought through the season with only two defeats in league games.

Wyandotte handed the Eagles a setback at the first game of the season to the tune of 19-7, but the Eagles came back when they played the Southeast game with a 19-6 victory. The Blue and White then battled headlong into a scoreless tie with Northeast, and the following week trounced the strong Paseo Pirates 14-0.

Pitted against an undefeated rival, the Southwest Indians, our team bowed on the home field with a 19-14 score. Central trampled Westport to the tune of 25-7, but Rockhurst's fast-stepping Hawklets overran our eleven the following week. Facing the strong East Bears for the final tilt, Central defeated them 19-7 to clinch second place in the Interscholastic League.

Passes paid the Eagles high dividends all year, and opposing teams respected Central's aerial attack.

Coach Awards Basket C's

Eleven Eagles rated basketball C's because of their outstanding play during the 1943 season. Good sportsmanship, time in play, general teamwork and special ability in one or more skills are some of the requirements for winning a letter in any sport, and these Central players were chosen on that basis.

At the mass award assembly, the Blue and White team showed their appreciation to Coach Guemple by presenting him with a miniature hat which could be turned in for a standard size hat of his own choice.

BASKETBALL LETTERMEN—Manager Wilson, Coach Guemple, Tate, Morris, Captain Cramer, Dolton, Ward, Prudden, Altman, Sherwin, Scofield, and Smith.

Eagles Prove Valor In Competition

Dogged by a jinx through the entire season, Central's Blue Eagles won two and lost five of the Interscholastic league basketball games. In nearly every instance the score was tied or very close, only to be broken in the final seconds by a flurry of goals from the opposing team.

Built around last year's lettermen, Meyer Mazon and Hal Cramer, the 1943 team quickly organized into an efficient group.

In the opening tiff, Manual was held to a tie for several exciting minutes, then succeeded in dropping in the goal that defeated Central, 31-29. The Northeast game ended in a similar fashion, with the Vikings taking the long end of the final score, 24-21. Paseo proved a hard opponent, winning by a margin of five points, 21-16.

TIPPING IT IN "Buck" Cramer scores again to help defeat Southwest. The other Eagle player shown in the snap is Bob Hemingway.

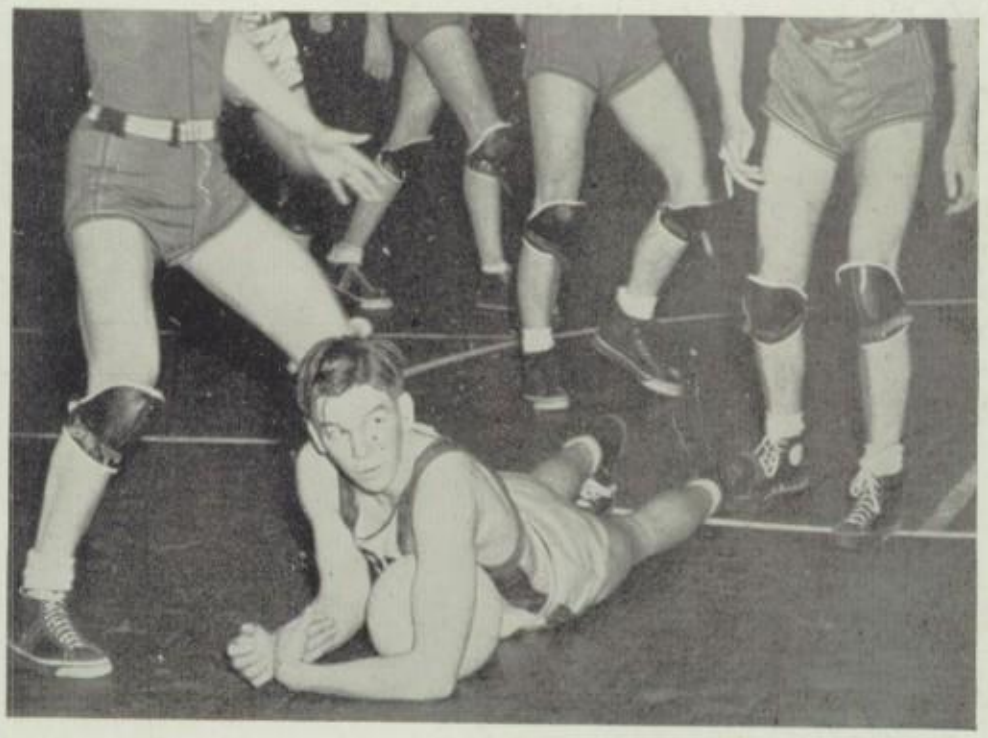
At this point in the season, the Eagles retrieved their honor by defeating Southwest 35-20 in a closely contested match which satisfied the injured ego of several football players who also participated in the basket sport. The winning streak continued with a decisive victory over Westport, 32-16. In the following contest, East once more took the upper hand, defeating the Blue and White with a score of 34-24.

The final game was one of the most exciting. The Southeast Knights were a fast, hard-driving team and personal competition ran high. Moreover, this game was the final opportunity for big "Buck" Cramer to break the all-time league record for individual scoring. The Knights won the game 27-24, but "Buck" beat the former record of 75 points with a total of 78 points scored.

Eagles who received the coveted letters for their ability and sportsmanship were: Marvin Altman—5′ 10″, forward, senior; "Buck" Cramer—captain, 6′ 2″, center, senior, all-star center; Bill Dolton—5′, 11″, forward, senior; Meyer Mazon—5′ 10″, forward, senior; Blanchard Morris—5′ 10″, forward, senior; Fred Prudden—6′, guard, junior; Myrl Scofield—6′, guard, junior; Claude Sherwin—6′ 1″, guard, senior; Ralph Smith—6′ 5″, center, senior; Frank Tate—5′ 10″, forward, senior; Steve Ward—6′, forward, senior, and Bill Wilson—Manager, sophomore.

DOLTON SENDS ONE through the hoop in a fast game against Northeast. Hal Cramer (80), Mazon, and Fred Prudden (91), wait for the rebound.

ENTERING PASEO'S TERRITORY Ralph Smith (90) is attempting to complete a "setup." Other Central players shown are Blanchard Morris (84), Claude Sherwin, Hal Cramer and Frank Tate.



BILL DOLTON lies on the floor looking up surprised at the official who had just called off the Paseo Pirates with his whistle. Bill took the ball away from a scrambling group of Pirates.

Class Sports Draw Interest

For the past few years, competition in intramural sports has offered an opportunity to participate in after-school sports to boys who were unable to take part in the interscholastic activities. This program had to be altered at the beginning of the 1942 school year because "Doc" Heischman, director of the intramural program, was transferred to East, and Coach Harry Slaymaker had too many other obligations to fill as coach of the football and track teams.

Intramural sports did not suffer a complete suspension, however, as touch football, basketball and "toughening-up" activities occupied the spotlight of the boys' gym classes.

The students of Central, as well as students of all high schools all over the country, became more and more war minded as the year progressed. Consequently, a great deal of time was spent climbing ropes, running long distances, scaling high walls and hurdling to improve the general physical health of the boy of high school age.

Upon reading that high school students were so "soft" that five deep knee bends would leave them in such a condition that they would require help to stand up on their feet, the boys' gym classes, under the direction of Coach Slaymaker, did an average of about 200 bends apiece. Gerald McBee did 1,048 full knee bends. Their point was well proved and the outstanding record of Central boys was given featured publicity in the Kansas City Star.

Late in the spring of 1943 an obstacle course, consisting of a small tunnel, a coffin-shaped framework to dive over, a zig-zag path, a rail to walk, parallel bars and two walls to scale was laid out around the north side of the track. Its purpose was to further toughen up the Central students.

The activities of the 1943 gym classes were of a strenuous nature so that they would strengthen the muscles of the future sailors, marines and soldiers of the United States.

Eagle track men who rate letters this year are: Harold "Buck" Cramer, 6'2", 170 lbs., age 18, senior, 220, 440, relay; Harold "Brewster" Ambrosius, 5'9", 155 lbs., age 18, senior, relay; Bill Sidebotham, 5'9", 153 lbs., age 17, junior, 220, 440, 100-yd. dash, shot put, relay; Richard "Andy" Anderson, 5'6", 128 lbs., age 18, senior, low hurdles, pole vault, relay; Bob Bates, 5'8", 151 lbs., age 17, senior, low hurdles; Charles Davis, 6'1", 165 lbs., age 18, senior, high jump; Don Fitzhugh, 5'8", 125 lbs., age 16, sophomore, 880; Eugene "Gene" Furnish, 5'10", 140 lbs., age 16, junior, pole vault, high jump, broad jump; Norris Groves, 5'9", 151 lbs., age 16, senior, 880; Guthrie, 5'9", 149 lbs., age 17, sophomore, pole vault; Claude Horning, 5'9", 168 lbs., age 16, junior, high jump, football relay; Dick Menze, 5'9¼", 147 lbs., age 17, senior, 880; Fred Prudden, 6'½", 170 lbs., age 17, junior, high hurdles, shot put; Don Saunders, 5'10", 155 lbs., age 17, senior, pole vault; Julian Snow, 5'9", 165 lbs., age 16, junior, low hurdles, high hurdles; Claude "Moose" Sherwin, 6', 175 lbs., age 18, senior, broad jump; John Williams, 6'3", 250 lbs., age 17, junior, shot put; Dudley Wren, 6'2", 150 lbs., age 17, senior, 880; Dick Sherman, 6', 175 lbs., age 17, senior, 880, 440.

Track Letters Awarded On Individual Merit Basis

New Method of Counting Points Gives More Boys Chance to Letter

"This year we're inaugurating a new system for awarding track letters," stated Coach Harry Slaymaker. "In former years, we have given 'C's' only to those boys who had won at least one point in the City meet, a first in a dual meet or an accumulation of ten points throughout several seasons of competition. This year we will award letters to all boys who have consistently represented Central in track events." The reason for this change in policy, according to Coach, is that track is more or less an individual sport and that any boy who makes a sincere effort to win deserves a letter as much as the boy on the football team who never makes a goal himself but tries his best for the good of the entire team.

With only four returning lettermen, the 1943 track team organized quickly with an unusual turnout for this sport. Although Central's league standing at the end of the season left much to be desired, the final tilt with Southwest, which the Eagles won, illustrated a strange twist in league scores. Southwest beat Northeast and Northeast beat Southeast—both of these last schools had outdone Central, yet we were victorious over the Indians.

Bad weather, exceptionally cold and rather rainy, hampered the speed of

Commando Tactics Are Introduced

Victory Program Includes Ten-Unit Obstacle Course

"Coordination is the big thing we're working for," commented Coach Harry Slaymaker, in speaking of the new wartime obstacle course set up on the track this year. In accordance with the victory program inaugurated in all high schools throughout the country, the boys' physical education classes have incorporated this hardening-up course in their regular curriculum.

The course consists of ten units located approximately 30 feet apart. First on the course is a wall, 10 feet wide and 7 feet high, which is completely smooth on the surface. The boys scale this wall and drop the seven feet on the other side. This develops arm muscles and would be useful in war if a high wall had to be surmounted. Second is a tunnel-shaped object, only 14 inches in height, which must be crawled through. This practice in moving forward on the stomach without raising the head would be essential in travel across "No Man's Land" under war conditions. Third on the course is a maze run—a labyrinth constructed of ropes on poles which the runners must dodge through at high speed.

Next is an oddly-shaped structure resembling a coffin. It is a wall about three feet in width which must be scaled in any manner the runner chooses. Balance beams are the next obstacle to be met. In case a soldier had to cross a stream on a narrow tree trunk this training would be very valuable. A hand-walk, which develops the arm muscles, is next in the course.

High jumping, swinging across the goal post by the hands and broad jumping complete the course.

"Any boy in good physical condition can run this course in two and one-half minutes," stated Coach Slaymaker. Daily practice makes this time possible for most of the boys participating.

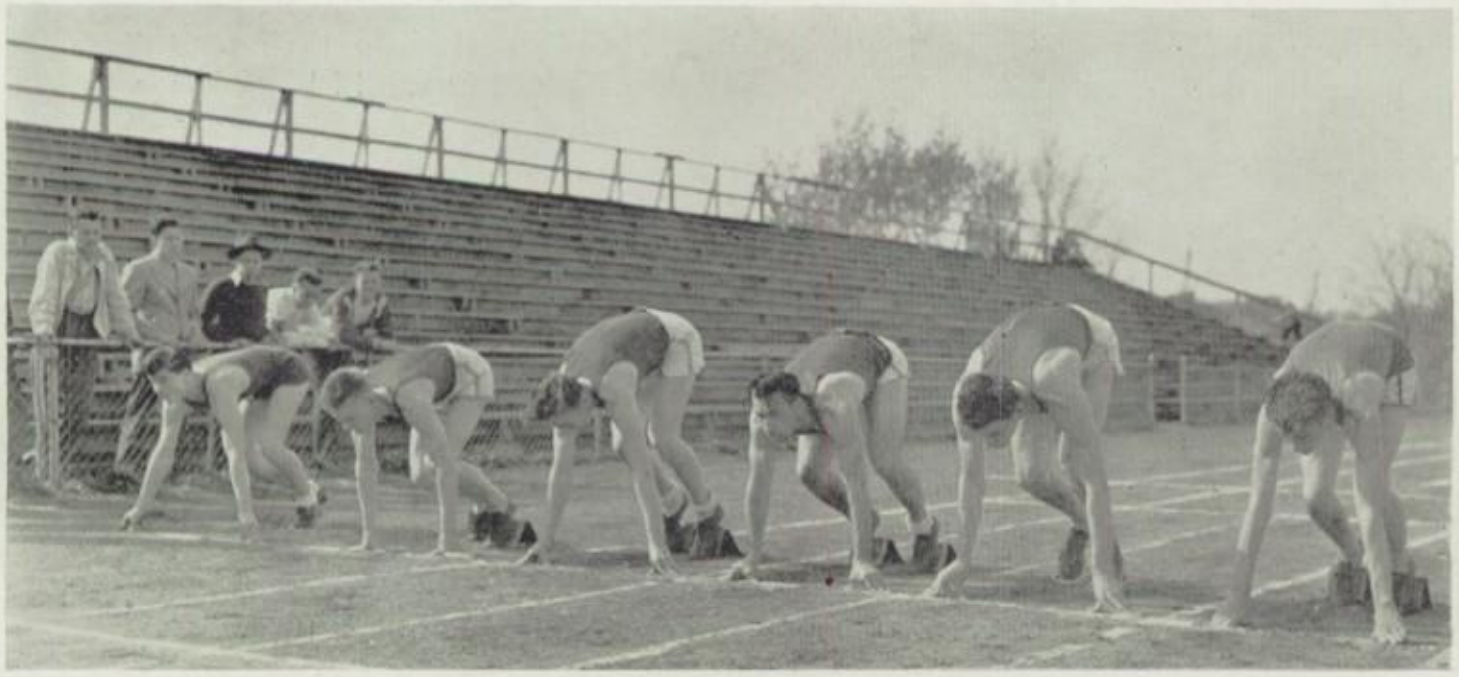
SCALING THE WALL on the obstacle course builds leg muscles for these future soldiers, sailors and marines.

WARD SHOT PUTS

the runners and made all the events more difficult to handle. In spite of these handicaps, at the time this book goes to press (before the City meet) Central tracksters hold two City records: Cramer has the 440 title with a time of 52.1 seconds. Anderson holds the pole vault crown with a top of 11 feet 9 inches.

Coach has high hopes of winning a good number of points in the City meet with a track squad well represented in every event:

Low hurdles—Anderson, Bates, Snow.
High hurdles—Prudden, Snow.
220—Cramer, Sidebotham.
440—Cramer, Sidebotham, Sherman.
880—Fitzhugh, Groves, Menze, Wren, Sherman.
100-Yd. dash—Sidebotham.
Pole vault—Anderson, Furnish, Guthrie.
High jump—Davis, Furnish, Horning, Prudden.
Broad jump—Furnish, Sherwin.
Shot put—Sidebotham, Prudden, Williams.
Relays—Anderson, Ambrosius, Sidebotham, Cramer (mile); Hanks, Haynie, Horning, Bodgers (football); Jennings, Merrill, Cruz, Best (sophomore).



READY—SET—GO! as the 440-yard dash contestants take position. Second from the right is Hal Cramer, leader in the city meet with a time of 52.1 seconds.

Right: PASSING THE BATON, "Andy" Anderson reaches for Harold Ambrosius' outstretched arm in the 880 relay.

GOLF AND TENNIS

FORE was a familiar cry to these Eagle golf lettermen. They are, left to right, Frank Lodyga, Bob Peters, Kenneth Davidson and Jimmie Myers.

Golfer Hits 79 Average

Although handicapped by the lack of a nearby golf course for practice purposes, the Eagle team had a successful season. Their only practice had to be obtained over the week ends, which made continued wins difficult to obtain.

Last fall a 72-hole tournament was played by members of six high schools on the Swope Park No. 2 golf course. Kenneth Davidson, Frank Lodyga, Jimmie Myers and Bob Peters represented Central. Bob Peters, captain, shot the lowest 18-hole average of the Eagle lettermen. His score was 79. Kenneth Davidson was close behind with an average of 81, while Frank Lodyga and Jimmie Myers were next in line.

No Central lettermen shot low enough to compete in the State tournament.

Bob Peters, captain and low scorer this year, will be back next year.

Tennis Team Bows to Tigers

Central's tennis team bowed to the Westport Tigers in this year's Interscholastic league competition. Competing against Paseo, Manual, Northeast, Southwest and Westport, the Eagles made a good showing in spite of expert opposition.

In the singles division, Irwin Bartlett was matched with Fredman of Southwest. Fredman took the second game, eliminating Bartlett from the tournament. Meyer Mazon, the other Eagle racket man, advanced to the semi-finals where Southwest's Block finally put him out of play. Block, in turn, was defeated by Wilkinson of Westport, who remained the champion.

Russell Brock and Dale Reubart formed Central's number one doubles team. They played successfully until they hit the semi-finals where Meyers and Gersham of Westport took the upper hand. This same Tiger combination completed the season undefeated to take the doubles crown.

Harry Lerner and Richard Harris, Central's number two combination, were defeated in the first round by McGill and Benson of Southwest.

Westport was high school in the meet, the Tigers having taken first in both singles and doubles competition.

The spring tennis season was hindered by rain and the poor condition of the courts, but a quadrangle meet was held on the Plaza courts in which Central, Paseo, Southwest and Westport participated.

Intensive training is essential to an efficient tennis organization and because of conflicting activities, those on the team found it necessary to do most of their practice work outside of school hours. The convenient location of the courts in Central Park made the situation more satisfactory.

Tennis letters for outstanding play were awarded to Irwin Bartlett, Meyer Mazon, Dale Reubart, Richard Harris and Harry Lerner at the mass award assembly.

GIRLS' SPORTS

Gym Leaders Form Club

Stimulated by the victory program, gym girls created a new organization to improve their teamwork and make their part in the war effort a success. Each gym teacher sponsored a club composed of fifty girls outstanding in their classes.

Members of the Leaders' clubs were chosen for their athletic ability, leadership and understanding of the fundamentals of sports. The purpose of the clubs was to improve the girls' leadership abilities until they were capable of giving individual training to their classmates. By participating in the organizations, girls also learned to be referees.

Officers of the club sponsored by Miss Buchanan were: Nadine Mayo, president; Diane Leforgee, vice-president; and Pat Grinnell, secretary.

Classes of Miss Purnell and Miss Leibengood consolidated to form one club which, instead of electing officers, chose to be governed by class leaders. Nadine Braden acted as an official of the club from Miss Purnell's classes. Mary Ann Elliott and Evelyn Tilson represented Miss Leibengood's students.

Revise Girls' Gym Course

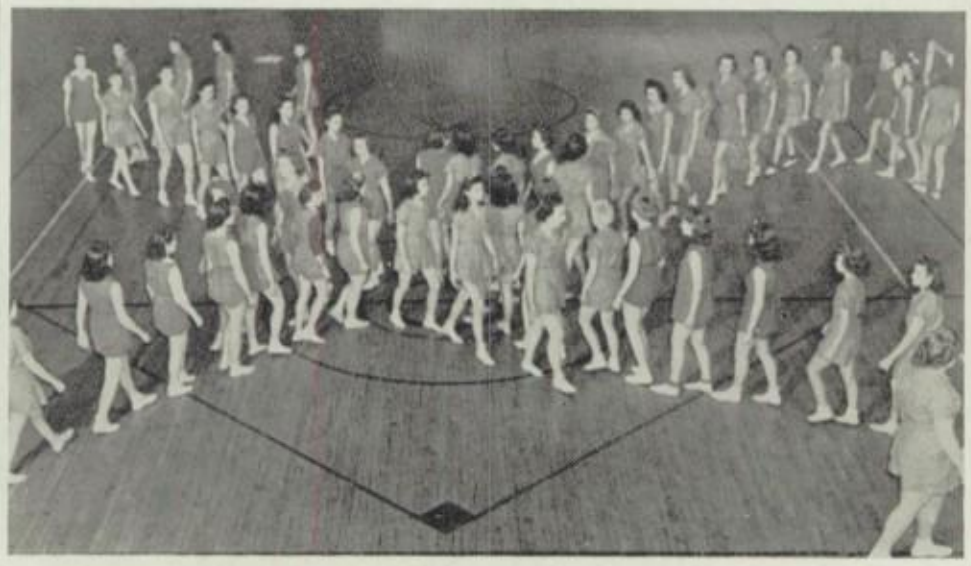
Swimming, Exercises Included in New War-time Program

Conforming to the war-time programs emphasized throughout the nation, important changes have been made in the schedule of the girls' gym department during the past year. Revised courses in physical education have been installed which meet national war-service demands for greater strength, endurance, stamina, coordination and agility in American youth.

Class activities are now divided into four classifications: aquatics, conditioning exercises, rhythms and sports. Thus the program is well balanced to insure a higher standard of physical fitness. Besides regular class activities, gym students are given the opportunity to participate in the usual intramural program of sports after school.

With the beginning of the second semester, physical education was made compulsory for all seniors. The object of this procedure was to fit girls for the heavier war-service jobs they probably will assume after graduation.

Upon leaving school girls may be called upon to fill positions formerly held by men and boys. With a definite background of physical education they can easily adjust themselves to the accelerated speed of essential industries. They can be of valuable service in agriculture, defense work, or nursing.



TECHNICAL DIAGONAL DRILL is executed by a girls' physical education class in the boys' gym.

TESTING THEIR ENDURANCE by treading water are Amy Brennaman, Velda Rogers, Jackie Povlovich, Dorothy Philpot, Joanne Simmons, Marian Hamacher, Corrine Hicks and Lucille Zaman. Along the side of the pool Dora Beiser, Gladys Marks, Jean Campbell, Jackie Kumpfer and Eileen Moreland offer suggestions and encouragement to their more daring comrades.

Drills Part of Course

Staccato commands accompanying the sound of marching feet filled the gym this winter. Regulation and fancy drilling had a part in the physical fitness program.

Classes were organized into companies which consisted of two platoons. Each platoon, in turn, was composed of three squads.

Nadine Braden of Miss Purnell's classes and Barbara Phillips of Miss Buchanan's, as drill captains, had charge of all platoons when they met after school.

Captains in command of Miss Purnell's classes were: Hour 1, Jacqueline Kumpfer; Hour 3, Mary Lee Travis; Hour 4, Betty Jeanne McLaughlin; Hour 5, Marjorie Kinnamon; and Hour 6, Nadine Braden.

Miss Buchanan's captains were: Hour 1, Betty Gane; Hour 2, Eileen Horwitz; Hour 3, Margaret Beckerdite; Hour 4, Beverly Owens; and Hour 5, Mary Noble.

Stress Swimming Skills

Being one of the healthiest of sports has made swimming extremely valuable in physical education's victory schedule. Endurance, a prime objective of the new course, was also emphasized in the swimming program.

Four basic strokes, the side stroke, back stroke, crawl and breast stroke, were stressed as being most valuable.

Sculling, floating and treading water were practiced to aid swimmers in staying afloat over long periods of time and during long-distance swimming.

Regular Red Cross tests for beginners, intermediates, swimmers and advanced swimmers kept most girls practicing diligently.

Gym Includes Calisthentics

Slenderizing exercises which were done formerly in a half-joking manner became a serious part of gymnasium life in the course of the past year. Bending, jumping, stretching and kicking maneuvers were perfected and performed with businesslike air by the end of the year.

When classes were first practicing exercises, startling moans issued from the gym's vicinity, but grim determination slowly smoothed away difficulties. The calisthentics proved valuable as unused muscles grew limber and skill in other sports increased.

HANDS ON HIPS, backs straight, slowly bend from right to left. Lazy muscles were soon brought to screaming activity by daily exercises such as this.

Run Obstacle Course

Squirming under benches was only one of the methods of developing agility and coordination that confronted the girls in the obstacle course. Gradually they learned to circle the gymnasium with a commendable amount of speed while hurdling benches, crawling over and under tables and hopping in and out of narrow triangles formed with hockey sticks.

By spring the girls had overcome the obstacles of their indoor course well enough to attempt the more difficult outdoor course made for the boys.

GIRLS' SPORTS

STRETCHING A BIT for the point is well worth the effort when it sends the ball through the basket as neatly as this.

Win Hoop Contest

Climaxing the basketball season was the annual Play Day, February 13, at Northeast High School. Central repeated its winning ratio of two out of three tourneys.

The girls representing Central were: forwards—Nadine Braden, Barbara Thompson, Marian Bressel, Virginia Schanz, Dorothy Allin and Darlene Newell; players—Helen Woltkamp, Corrine Hicks, Margaret Allin, Marjorie Kinnamon, Ella Marie Button and Georgia Boren.

These girls were chosen for their outstanding playing in the intramural tournaments which precedes the sports day. Four leagues, consisting of twenty-five teams, opposed each other in the contests. These after-school games lasted six weeks and aroused a great deal of excitement and friendly rivalry.

Central Team Leads City

Hockey season opened officially with intramural tournaments under the sponsorship of Miss Buchanan and the student managers, Dorothy Philpot and Betty Campbell. Three leagues and sixteen teams were organized from 250 girls who participated in the after-school games.

October 31 found Central's team victorious in two out of the three games played during the all-city hockey play day held at East High school. The team, composed of seventeen star players, was as follows: Margaret Allin, Nadine Braden, Charlene Moffet, Betty Kelly, Corrine Hicks, Helen Woltkamp, Ila Mae Reed, Mary Lou Heller, Catherine Sublette, Ebba Lee Lindell, Joanne Beamer, Marjorie Kinnamon, Jerry Bowers, Betty Smith, Helen Simmons, Pat Grinnell and Jackie Kumpfer.

Central's representatives tried their skill against those of Southeast, Pasco and East. The latter's team was the only one to prove themselves more expert in the game.

Sports Days Held

Interscholastic Contest Provides Keen Competition

Sports days have retained their honored place in active sports in spite of many changes made by the war. Basketball and hockey play days were held as usual. Only the sports day for volleyball was sacrificed as a less important part of the renewed physical fitness effort.

A CAREFUL STROKE guarded by cooperative teammates starts the game off right. A tangle of hockey sticks and numerous bruised shins are a sure sign of an exciting game.

It has long been a custom to set aside, every year, a day for an interscholastic contest in each of the girls' sports. The purpose of these sports days is not to determine a champion of all schools in the city. Rather, their aim is to promote good sportsmanship among the contestants and to give them an opportunity to make friends with girls from other schools. One of the most sought-for honors of the gym department has been the right to attend the play days.

On the specified days representatives from the various high schools met in one of the school gymnasiums to test their skill in hockey and basketball. Games were played with as much spirit as in professional tourneys, but with less rivalry.

Members of the teams participating in the sports days usually were chosen from the best players in the intramural tournaments. Two team managers chosen for each sport directed the actions of their all-star teams.

With the completion of the contests luncheon was either served in the cafeteria or eaten as a picnic on the school grounds.

Bottom: Corrine Hicks, Dorothy Lahman, Dorothy Philpot.

Managers Lead Sports

Managers of this year's major sports led their teams through unusually successful seasons. The leaders were: Nadine Braden and Betty Campbell, volleyball; Elsie Bruns and Corrine Hicks, hockey; and Dorothy Lahman and Dorothy Philpot, basketball.

These girls, picked from members of the Olympian club, were selected for their leadership, outstanding playing and ability to understand the game.

Team managers have much responsibility as well as honor. Probably the most important duty is managing game schedules for intramural tournaments. Also, if officials cannot be supplied for a game, the manager must fill the void. Records of attendance, scores and game standings are more routine matters requiring her attention.

Results of sports days and after-school tournaments proved the merits of the 1943 managers and rewarded them for their efforts.

BOOSTING A VOLLEYBALL over the net takes plenty of spring. A few of the volleyball enthusiasts practice "spiking" fast balls high into the air with a good jump to increase their power.

Volleyball and Tennis Produce Skilled Players

In the absence of the annual volleyball play day, after-school games took on a greater interest. This year's was a double-elimination tournament. There were three separate contests, and the winners of each contest's games competed for the honor of being the champion of the school.

Gym girls found that the calisthentics, which at first caused so many aches, were an asset in their volleyball playing as well as in other activities. After accomplishing several exercises the girls became more adept at jumping for balls and were able to move more quickly about the court.

On the heels of the last volleyball game, tennis racquets made their appearance in locker rooms, a sure sign of spring. As always, tennis was one of the best-liked sports of that season. Since only two players are needed to make a game, it is extremely popular during the summer months. For this reason girls are usually anxious to learn it in school.

Along with the customary spring sports, the girls practiced running on the track. They had been building up resistance by racing around their own gym.

Lots of luck to a perfectly wonderful person. Love, Corine

WAR ACCELERATES R. O. T. C. PROGRAM

Quickening their cadence to fall in step with the war effort, Central's ROTC cadets changed much of their usual procedure this year to conform with the high standards set forth by the government.

The cadets led Central, not only in the sales of war stamps and bonds, but took an active part in the victory book and paper campaigns that became popular this year.

The Blue Eagle battalion was headed by Cadet Major Richard Sherman this year with a complete staff of thirteen officers. Cadet Captain Donald Reid held the position of battalion adjutant, while Cadet Captains Harold Tenenbaum, William Bucher, Ned Schoonover and Edwin Martin were commanders of companies A, B, C and D, respectively. Completing the staff of officers as lieutenants were William Coleman, William Davis, James Fredrick, John Modlin, Robert Samsel, Jack Sante and Fred Stratemeier.

Physical fitness was the order of the year, and the cadets built their whole program with this as keynote. This course of physical training was intensified as the year progressed and especially with the completion of the new obstacle course.

Giving up their regular rifles, the cadets conformed with the victory theme by using new "Victory" training rifles to aid in their drill. Also to keep in line with the war effort they forfeited their annual military hop and ROTC circus.

SENIOR PROPHECY

How students are working toward the future has been related here; but just what these Centralites will be doing in the future is impossible to foretell. Who knows, if we could push time forward fifty years, to 1993, we might even find that:

Beverly Fox has just retired from a successful career as a Powers model. Her husband is now producing a new film starring Bob Criger and Harry Lerner, successors to Abbott and Costello.

Dick Sherman is running for a third term as President of the United States. Supporting him with gusty campaign speeches is Windy Winbigler, the President's butler.

At the state insane asylum we find La Verne Carothers, who insists he is a piggy bank and swallows all the money he can get. The innerspring walls and Donald Duck wallpaper of the asylum were created by Marjorie Shryock, famed interior decorator. Costume designer Jack Stevens concocted those zoot strait jackets with the drape shape.

Bunny Hargis and Marilyn Ballinger have long since soared to great heights on stage, screen and radio. The 1993 King of Swing is none other than Buster Rodekopf and his Wailing Wildcats. Frances Sartori and Betty Rice are members of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra.

Mary McGowan and Ethel Abernathy are hard at work on the 1993 Nightmare, annual publication of the Bundy Home for Aged Ladies. The proprietor is, of course, Beverly Bundy.

Jim Benjamin is city editor of the Kansas City Star. Dorothy Hill is the Inquiring Reporter, and Mary Jane Rugel still gives four cents commission on all ads.

Barrelhouse Bill Jennings is a professional boxer and is training for a stiff battle with Clubber Claude Sherwin.

Phil Stevens and Bill Scott are still at Central trying to learn French verbs. Patience, Mlle. Wardell! By the way, Ann Reisner is teaching French and English at the new Rittmaster high school, named for Howard Rittmaster, the national educator.

After fifty years, Dick Corp and Virginia Emery are still discussing marriage. Likewise, Ruthelma Long and Ed Martin. Martin is now chief soda jerk in Bill Lawing's drug store.

Betty Weiser is dancing down Broadway, while Sue Ann Stott is still burning the bottoms out of her test tubes as a research chemist at Chicago University.

Don Reid and Freddie Stratemeier are joint owners of a handy little machine which turns out perfectly printed $10 bills. On the side they print themselves tickets to Bettie Jo Horn's new play, "The Corn Is Ripe," and handbills for Bob Samsel's Super Market.

Jim Curtis has finally achieved his life's ambition. He now owns his own little hamburger stand at the corner of Victor and Indiana.

Laboring energetically at her position of chief window box weeder, we find Virginia Luce, who is employed at Fremerman's Flower Shoppe. Bernie Fremerman, the owner, has won many prizes with his Povlovich Poppy, named after Jackie Povlovich.

Betty (I've got oomph!) Schaefer has joined the Waves to be close to the navy. She has her eye on Lieutenant Commander Bob Dalton.

Ronald Farmer is photographer for Life magazine. Bill Bucher draws cartoons for Esquire, of which Jess Luker is editor-in-chief.

Ned Schoonover has made a name for himself in the mattress manufacturing business. Recently he hired Roy Merritt to test all the mattresses for him. Roy sprawls out on the mattresses and tests and tests and tests, day in, day out, with all his heart.

Prominent in the world of medicine is Stephen Bruce Ward, M.D. Dr. Ward's chief business agent (do doctors have agents?) is John Middleton, who stands outside the doctor's door and makes people sick.

Co-partners in an enterprising fishing concern are Hal Cramer and Bob Staley. Staley is the bait.

Just off the presses is the third volume of Mary Esther Watts' series, "How to Cook a Pancake." This best seller is recognized by the Book-of-the-Month committee—Joan Leukel, Margaret Mails, Marvin Altman and Blanchard Morris—as the housewife's greatest little helper.

At the corner of 18th and Vine we find Berry's Burpy Beer Parlor. Although she herself doesn't indulge, Emily Berry, manager and owner, is also the bartender. Bryce Raines acts as bouncer, and the face on the barroom floor belongs to Keith Finnell.

Harold Ambrosius, Bob Bates and Chuck Thierfelder have collaborated in the glass and china business. They wash it and dry it at Poor Richard's (Kingsbury) Restaurant.

The best place in town to buy bakery goods is Butner's Biscuit Company. Dorothy Butner, president of the company's board of trustees, personally ices all the cakes. Chief taste-tester is Doris Lichtor, while Mary Pollock is responsible for seeing that only 8½ cherries go into each pie. But Gene Loveland holds the most responsible position in the whole Butner enterprise. Gene sticks his face in the dough to make animal crackers.

Specialist in the art of taxidermy is Edwin Rusterholtz, who stuffs anything and everything, including himself. Also in the taxi business is Bill Partin, who drives one in the downtown shopping district. Bill manages to get by on his four gallons per week by diluting it with some of Courtney Perkins' Porte, vintage 1928.

Norma McCourtney, Effie Jean Carter, Dolores Scott and La Verne Parker are students at Clovis Klassen's School for Klassy HairDo's. Right across the street at Edward Blohm's Barber College, Harlan Pickering, Marvin Pemberton and Gordon Eaton are gaining skill in wielding the scissors by practicing on Don Accurso of the Flowing Locks.

At the Jackson County Court House, Ted Brown is toiling away as a defense attorney. At this time he is pleading for his defendant, Dolores Watson, who is charged with "lifting" a potato chip from Meyer Mazon's lunch. The attorney for the state, Paul Williams, is determined to prosecute the case to its fullest extent, and the outcome looks very grave indeed.

Rapidly making a name for himself in the song-writing business is Bob Twin, who has just composed a new ditty entitled, "I Wanna Short, Skinny Nephew." Another of his hit tunes, "Repulsive Is the Word for Ruthie," placed first on the Hit Parade. The Hit Parade, by the way, is now sponsored by Bob Wright, who has made a fortune from his "Refreshing Fag" cigarette business.

Dale Reubart, now a prosperous undertaker, still pulls that old one that goes: "How's business?" "Dead, as usual." Recently he donated two of his most streamlined hearses to the Emersons and Thalians for Pledge Day. Unfortunately, he took the tires off first.

Del Duggan, principal of Central from 1980 to 1992, has resigned to accept the position of Santa Claus in a downtown department store. Christmas comes but once a year, however, so Del has plenty of time to rest up between seasons . . .

Which reminds us that we, too, are becoming weary. Here we've written over 1100 words, which no one will read, anyhoo . . . Oh, heck!

Dear Jim,

Lots of luck & success to a swell fellow. Have lots of fun.

Yours truly

Bill Scott

The staff feels that you, as buyers of this book, are justly entitled to know how your money is spent. It is with humble appreciation of your enthusiastic support that we submit the following financial statement. Treat it kindly, and overlook the few minor (?) errors, for this swindle-sheet represents ten minutes of intense mental labor by a definitely unmathematically-minded business staff.

Dear Jim,
I know you will be a success in all you do. Wish you the best of luck. Your lovin' Sister

To Central

Dear old Central, far-famed Central,
Thou shalt never fail;
Round thy name there clings a tendril
Of tradition's tale.

CHORUS

Thou are victor; fame has followed,
Clad in dignity;
May thy name to all be hallowed
By our love for thee.

Every student soon or later
In his walk of life
Greets the thought of Alma Mater
As his strength in strife.

Dear Jim

It looks as if our school days together are over and we each must go our own way. We have had so much fun together all these years and it is really hard to part, but I guess there is no way of preventing it. I would like only to well to go on to Alleg together, but that seems to be impossible at the present times. However the times may be though we can still remain friends and I really hope we shall. And Jim if there is ever anything I can do for you please let me know and I will be only to glad to help. Since I am not very long winded I am about to run out of things to say, but I am sure that you know how I feel about our friendship and there is no need for words. Lets always try to keep track of each other if it can in anyway be done.

A friend forever

Paul Williams

Dear Jim,

As we stop for a moment to think about the past year I'm sure our thoughts will run across some of the same things, for it seems that we played right straight thru with each other - Jeffersons, Luminary, Centralian and school in general. Those nights we spent in the print shop together reading proofs, eating hamburgers on the paper money, running case, setting heads and late copy and not in least humoring Mr Harley. Its really been swell Jim, all that I can hope is that our paths will run as near a feast in life outside school as it has in school. Here's wishing you luck in life, Jim.

Chuck Shirfelder

Dear Jim

Well Jim you have really been a spark plug in our old paper this year. And I'm sure that in your coming years you will have the happiness that you deserve. I sure wish I don't lose contact with you even though you have graduated.

Junior Floyd

Dearest Jimmie;

The day of parting comes, as surely as does any day in the entire realm of time. I can sincerely say I'm sorry — in many ways — sorry, because neither the immediate or distant future held any assurance of our continued friendship. A friendship that means so very much to me that words cannot express the true feeling. Yet, I pray, that the status of that friendship might continue.

In leaving, I carry many memories with me. Certain things, of course, I shall always associate with you — many things. Especially I think, shall the sound of hurried footsteps always bring back a picture of your many frenzied runs to and from the print shop. Also, memories of Delphi + Jefferson will always mean you, as my dearest brother. You were their leader as well. There are many reasons why you are the closest to me. Our talks have helped, of course, and the way you always understood. I can credit myself with saying everything I ever told you made sense & had a point behind it. It just seemed that nothing could work out for us. Something always came up. Yet, with all sincerity, may I say I wish it had with all my heart, because you're the finest boy I know. The qualities in your character, your ideals and standards stand high above all others. You're a perfect gentleman, at the same time, you're a regular fella. That's a lot to be proud of.

You've acquired just about every honor Central has to offer, and why not? They do merely to recognition of your fine character and many abilities. I sincerely hope you're a member at "Billy Joel" next year. On the other hand, I guess I still wish everything comes out for you as you dream it, now. If it doesn't, don't fadget & sit still "be-

In closing, I will not wish you luck. In no instance may we find that the world pays tribute to such. I wish for you success, in everything you do. I know it will be yours, just as do your countless other friends. This, as a parting thought:

"Figure it out for yourself, my lad.
You've all that the greatest of men have had.
With your equipment they all begun.
Get hold of yourself, and say, "I can!""

Don't sell it short, dear Jimmie, because it can help a lot. You can, you know Jim. You'll succeed no matter what the goal. I'm wishing you the best, always and ever.

Love
Bonnie Laurence
